

Too much homework

by Cai Wai Ho, Peter (6A)

Last Friday afternoon, Calvin stayed at home alone. He had lots of homework to do. He felt bored because he thought doing homework was meaningless. Later, he left the table and went to play a computer game about fighting with his friends online. He felt excited so he forgot his homework. Calvin played the computer game for three hours. He played it until half past seven. Suddenly, some smoke came out of the computer and then it was broken down. Therefore, he was very worried.

Finally, Calvin called his parents for help. He said, 'Mum and Dad, my computer is broken down.' His parents scolded him because he had played on the computer for long hours. After a while, they came back with a computer programmer. The computer programmer checked the computer and said, 'This computer is not broken down. Just reboot it.' After this incident, Calvin learned not to play computer games for too long.
